He lifts the lowly, centers the outsider, and calls all people into God’s upside-down Kingdom.

John: The Eagle: John soars. His Gospel draws us into divine mystery—Jesus as the eternal Word, the light in the darkness, the Son who reveals the heart of the Father. It’s poetic, profound, and deeply personal.

Thread Podcast & App are heading into a brand new season! This time, we’re walking through the four Gospels: Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John.

Join us as we enter sacred ground – the life and story of Jesus as told through the four Gospels. Each gospel provides a unique lens of who Jesus is.

Throughout history, Christians have imagined the four gospels as distinct portraits of Jesus reflected in the four living creatures from Ezekiel and Revelation: the lion, the ox, the man, and the eagle. These ancient symbols invite us to encounter each Gospel with fresh perspective and deeper insight.

Matthew: The Man: Matthew presents Jesus as the long-awaited Messiah. His Gospel carries authority, fulfilling prophecy and declaring a Kingdom that has come, and is still coming.

Mark: The Lion: Mark gives us the most intense, urgent picture of Jesus. He moves quickly, showing a suffering servant whose actions speak louder than words. This is a Gospel up close: honest, raw, and real.

Luke: The Ox: Luke’s Gospel carries the weight of the world—Jesus as the humble burden-bearer, strong and compassionate.
