

intention. From there we traced his covenant love through generations. We walked with Abraham and Sarah as they stepped into the unknown, carrying both faith and doubt. We followed Jacob in his wrestling, his schemes, and ultimately, his transformation. We explored the complexity of Judah's redemption and the resilience of Joseph's faith through betrayal and suffering. Through Moses, we witnessed a reluctant leader rise to face Pharaoh and lead God's people to freedom. In the wilderness, we learned alongside Israel what it means to trust, to wander, and to be formed. From there, we marveled at the bravery of women like Ruth and Esther, witnessed God's kings in trials and triumphs, and watched the people of God return from exile to rebuild what was broken. God's Word proved powerful generation after generation. In all this, he prepared his people for the messiah that we'll explore in Season Two.

Thread is hosted by Dr. David Pocka and Hannah DeSouza, who together bring deep insight, fresh perspective, and an honest curiosity to the scriptures many of us know so well. Along the way, they've been joined by incredible guests – trusted voices who've helped draw out the richness of each book and moment. We're grateful for all of the voices that added texture, wisdom, and lived experience to our journey through the Bible.

More than a podcast, Thread is a discipleship resource created to serve the local church. Joel Nagel designs companion content for each episode – including daily devotionals, small group discussion guides, family discipleship tools, and leadership resources for churches from the pulpit to the preteens – all accessible through the Thread app. Whether you're a church leader or just looking to deepen your faith, we'd love to connect.

We've officially completed Season One of the Thread Podcast — a sweeping journey of 46 episodes through the entire Old Testament — all broken down into eight preaching series.

Join us as we celebrate Season One: YHWH & The People! Check out the podcast on YouTube, and download the Thread Podcast App today! Over the course of Season One, over 7,000 people downloaded the Thread App and more than 30 churches began using Thread to preach through the Old Testament and provide rich resources for their congregations. We can't wait for Season Two!
